

An important message from MAD's Director of Business & Development,

DAN BROWN

In troubling times such as ours — and by "ours" I mean yours and mine, not someone else's, which would be their troubling times, not ours — people — and by "people" I mean us, not those others who aren't us but them — well, I'm sure you know what I'm getting at.

MAD — and by "MAD" I mean MAD — MAD is a magazine whose time is and continues to be. It defines who we are and where we've been and where we are hoping to go if we can only find the money and get some time off. No reasonable person would argue with that.

And so it's with that in mind — and by "that" I mean this, which is what I am about to say: I don't wear a green suit with a question mark because I look attractive in it. I wear it it because I must. A man must do what a man must do. And so must a woman. We are all one in nature's garden.

Given all this, subscribing to MAD makes perfect sense. To you and me. Us.

The envelope Tom Anderson's letter arrived in was also a tribute to Prohias. My condolences to all on the passing of Antonio Prohias. His "Spy Vs. Spy" cartoons were probably my first exposure to the magazine in my early youth, because they were the only things I could understand!

Matt McCullar Arlington, TX

I was saddened to learn of the passing of Antonio Prohias. As a young man in the early '60s, I eagerly awaited each new issue of MAD magazine, primarily for the "Spy Vs. Spy" episodes. Prohias was truly original and brought great mirth to all who read his work.

Jay West vest@dawgnet.net

This is just to express my sadness at learning of Mr. Prohias' passing away. His cartoons have been, since I was a kid, the source of much fun, and God knows we need that. He will be sorely missed.

Nuno Miranda mib@ip.pt

I was saddened to learn today of Antonio Prohias' passing. His work inspired me quite a bit as a kid, and still does today. I send love to his family and friends. I'd love to see what he's drawing now. Heh...Bet he gives God a grin or two!

Bradly Peterson drama@fastlane.net

"Spy Vs. Spy" was the first thing I read in MAD Magazine. My father was a big fan of MAD and had a pile of them in his closet. When my brother and I discovered them, back around 1963, I was only three years old. Since I couldn't read at the time, I looked for the features without words. Antonio Prohias' and Sergio Aragones' art always made the magazine worth thumbing through. As I got older, I would go back and read the same issues and found more and more to enjoy as I learned about the world.

In 1975, I was 15, and my family took a trip cross-country from California to New York. While in New York City, my brother Bob and I begged our parents to let us visit the offices of MAD Magazine. My father agreed, and circled the block for half hour while we ran up to the 13th floor of the Madison Avenue offices. When we arrived, the secretary asked if we had an appointment. Oh no! We had come so close and now it looked like we wouldn't get to see anything. We explained we had come all the way from California and this was our only chance to visit. Just then, the door opened, and MAD Editor Al Feldstein smiled and welcomed us inside. Wow, we're in! As we walked down the art-covered hall to the large layout/art room, we saw Leonard Brenner pasting type down on some art. Al had given each of us a "cheap crummy souvenir" — a mini poster of the whole staff, which we excitedly got everyone there to autograph for us.

Antonio Prohias was penciling one of his "Spy Vs. Spy" features. When we asked him for an autograph, he smiled, looking up from his art table, and asked "Who am I?" I said "Al Jaffee?" "No," he said, "I am Antonio Prohias!" And with that, he took the souvenir sheet with all the printed self-characters of the artists on it, and proceeded to show us who he was. He drew the Black and White Spies with their noses tied together in a knot. Then he asked my name, and wrote "To Tom Anderson, MADly —A. Prohias." I thanked him while shaking his hand. I was so happy to meet the man who drew something I had enjoyed for all those years. What a thrill it was.

As the years went by, I would still get every issue of MAD. One day I noticed that Antonio no longer drew "Spy Vs. Spy." Then I learned that he was in poor health in Miami. In 1997, I tracked down his address and wrote him a nice letter reminding him of the 1975 visit to MAD and how much I had enjoyed "Spy Vs. Spy" all those years. A few months later, his daughter Marta wrote me for her father, expressing thanks for the letter and that it made him happy. I was sad when I learned he died. I remember him fondly and with admiration. He once took the time for me, making me very happy, and now I take the time to let others know what a truly kind and talented man Antonio Prohias was.

able subscribers, animation fans and fart joke lovers agree: "South Park" is the hottest show to hit the air in years. It's already Comedy Central's top-rated program EVER! (Of course, to do that, it only had to beat 1996's "Paul Rodriguez Presents: The Best of the Chuckle Hut.") Anyway, it's obvious that the powers-that-be won't rest until they've squeezed every profitable drop out of the series. Jenkins uses and re-uses cloth diapers, so as not to add more plastic to our nation's landfills.

Melvin

Despite being childless, Melvin buys plastic diapers, in case the game goes extra innings.

Jenkins

Jenkins brings his empty cans down to the recycling machine to be crushed for re-use.

Melvin

Melvin figures why bother going all the way down to the center to crush cans, when his forehead is only inches away.

PRESIDENT DENIES HIDING BEHIND FIRST LADY AT FORD'S THEATER

WASHINGTON - April 17. President Clinton today repudiated charges that he deliberately ducked behind First Lady Mary Todd Rodham Clinton to avoid being shot by John Wilkes Booth at Ford's Theater three days ago.

"It just didn't happen that way," Clinton told reporters. "When Booth shouted 'Sic semper tyrannis' I thought he said, 'It takes a village' and wanted to meet the author." (It Takes w Village is the title of the late First Lady's most recent, and apparently last, book.) "Rather than dwell on what happened, I think the First Lady's wishes would be to continue healing the nation's wounds after the Civil War through a series of tax cuts targeted to aid the middle class."

Clinton is also expected to use the fact that Booth used a flintlock pistol to press Congress for quick passage of the Brady Bill, a gun-control measure named for Civil War photographer Matthew Brady, who took countless photographs of military men holding flintlocks. Clinton's explanation contradicted statements by several eyewitnesses, who said he intentionally used his wife as a shield when he saw Booth's gun. "They don't call him 'Dishonest Abe' for nothing," said one observer. The controversy has led to the appointment of a special prosecutor, Ezekiel Starr. Starr's Grand Jury is expected to hear testimony today from Vernon Jordan, a recently freed slave and the President's friend, who is expected to back the President's explanation of the events leading to the First Lady's shooting.

"With the first lady out of the way, Clinton's now a single man and can philander right out in the open," said a Washington insider. "Not that it made any difference before."

Despite the seriousness of the charges, Clinton's overall popularity remains astonishingly high. The latest poll shows that 81% of the people consider him m "excellent" President. No southern states were included in the poll, however.

THOMAS JEFFERSON CLINTON - 1806

CLINTON DENIES INVOLVEMENT IN LOUISIANA-GATE SCANDAL

President Clinton visiting the controversial Louisiana Territory yesterday. He and Miss Gennifer Flowers left, whom Clinton identified as his unpaid consultant, said they both had an interest in exploring the lay of the land.

WASHINGTON — May 30. President Clinton today claimed innocence regarding shady land dealings in the newly acquired Louisiana Territory. Despite the denials, special prosecutor Alexander Hamilton Starr vowed to carry on his investigation of White House involvement.

According to sources close to the probe, documents exist describing a deal between the President and explorers Meriwether Lewis McDougal and William Clark McDougal. The three men are accused of secretly acquiring thousands of acres of the choice wilderness recently purchased from France to be sold at a profit to independent land developers. The developers allegedly contributed $100,000 to a so-called "flush fund" used by Clinton to install experimental indoor plumbing in his Monticello mansion.

"This is just a land speculation deal that I lost money on," said Clinton. "Besides, I had nothing to do with it. My wife put this deal together." Investigators consider this statement highly suspect, as women aren't allowed to own real estate. Starr is also looking into possible connection between the land deal and the recent mysterious dueling death of Vincent Foster, the First lady's law associate.

Despite the scandal, the President's popularity has reached an all-time high, the latest polls showing that 81% of the American people give him an "excellent" onthe-job rating.

NTON HAD BEEN HROUGH HISTORY

BENJAMIN HARRISON CLINTON - 1890

After discussing the massacre at Wounded Knee today, President Clinton asks reporters to leave so be and an unnamed White House intern can review the Oval Office Log.

PRESIDENT HOLDS U.S. ARMY BLAMELESS AT WOUNDED KNEE MASSACRE IN SOUTH DAKOTA

Cites Faulty Peace Pipe Process

WASHINGTON - Dec 29. President Clinton refused to condemn the Army in the massacre killing of between 150 and 370 Indian men, women and children at Wounded Knee, South Dakota today.

"It's true that before troops opened fire, our generals smoked the peace pipe with tribal elders," he explained, "But under my order, none of our officers inhaled! This meant the Army wasn't required to follow any treaties, and they started shooting. Besides, our intelligence reports indicated the savages were manufacturing arrows, tomahawks and other weapons of mass destruction. It left us no alternative."

Many in Washington are critical of Clinton's ordering troops into action when he himself avoided serving in the cavalry by spending a year at Oxford University in England, Still, an unrepentant Clinton commented, "When I was elected, I pledged to end concern for the Indian's welfare as we know it, and I've fulfilled that promise. Now, our nation can get on with the business of building a bridge to the 20th century."

The public seems to be siding with the President, as recent polls indicate 81% of the population gives him an "excellent" rating as Commander-In-Chief. None of the polls were taken on Indian reservations.

FRANKLIN DELANO CLINTON - 1941

PRESIDENT SAYS SLOW RESPONSE TO PEARL HARBOR ATTACK HAS NOTHING TO DO WITH ASIAN CONTRIBUTIONS

WASHINGTON ~ Dec. 14. Addressing picint session of Congress last night, President Clinton called for an all-out declaration to consider how to best respond to last week's unprovoked attack on Pearl Harbor by the Japanese, which resulted in the sinking of over 20 naval vessels and the deaths of approximately 3,000 American military personnel.

Critics immediately charged that the President's slow reaction is directly related to the millions of dollars of Asian campaign contributions he received during the last election.

In referring to the attack, not the one on Pearl Harbor, but the one on his character. Clinton began his remarks to Congress with "December 7th, 1941 – A day which will live in infamy, because of baseless charges made against me as part of a vast right-wing conspiracy."

Clinton went on to say, "We have to learn the reasons why our respected Asian friends launched their sneak attack before we can respond appropriately, and to that end I have sent Vice President Gore to attend Buddhist Temple fundraiser, er, fact-finding conference."

Despite the seeming lack of decisive leadership, President Clinton's popularity rating is still at an all-time high. The rating began rising when he adopted puppy named Fala last month. Following the President's address to Congress, Freshman Kansas Senator Robert Dole was heard exclaiming, "Where's the outrage, where's the outrage?"

Following his remarks to Congress last night, President Clinton prepares to have a fireside chat with a member of his staff.

THE SUMMER CAMP JOB

Ah. Summer! time to kick back on the beach. 🗼 a slurpee and let your brain atrophy. Unless you're our hero because for him it's time for his first summer job!!! Good old mom "pulled a few strings" and landed our boy a gig as a CIT - Counselor in Training. Pack your bug repellent and off we

But I like my own room. I'm not real comfortable sleeping with bunch of strange guys. I'm not like you, Mom.

Watch your mouth, Mr. Smartupants! Besides, it's about time you started earning some money to help out around the house. You think It's easy getting by on what your father sends us?

I put a salami in your bag in case you get hungry. Don't write too often!

Hey, you must be Monroe. I'm Bret.

And I'm Gordon. We're going to be training you. But good!

Come on, Gordon. You're scaring him. Don't worry, the state doesn't let us use The Box anymore.

After you get through with those dishes you can help the kids set up their tents. And oh, by the way, we found a salami when we were goin'
through your stuff so we ate it. Thanks.

To Be Continued.

HEAR THE RADIO THAT WOKE UP AN ENTIRE INDUSTRY*

"To the fact that there are idiots out there willing to spend hundreds of dollars just for a radio!

Popular Audio wrote that it is "a sonic masterpiece." Radio Magazine wrote that it is "simply amazing...a genuine breakthrough in sound quality!" And High Fidelity wrote, "Sorry, but you'll have to take thousands of dollars in advertising in our magazine like you did in Popular Audio and Radio Magazine before we'll write hyped-up copy about how great your radio is." What radio are they all talking about? The Boose* Wavy radio.

HALF A MILLION PEOPLE ALREADY OWN THE BOOSE® WAVY RADIO.

In just over three years, the Wavy radio has changed the way half a million people listen to music — people like Stanley Karpinski of Staten Island, NY, who said, "It's changed the way I listen to music. I stopped listening to CDs and audiocassettes! I had to! The Wavy won't play them. It's just a damn radio!"

OUR EXCLUSIVE, AWARD-WINNING DESIGN

The secret to the Wavy radio's remarkable success lies in an exclusive, award-winning design. Our experts spent countless hours designing sleek, elegant ads for the Wavy radio, resulting in a remarkably successful ad campaign that has won numerous awards for its design. The actual design of the radio itself your convenience, and dual alarms which can be heard up to five miles away. Is it any wonder that people who weren't smart enough to buy a stereo system with a CD player, AM/FM radio, dual cassette deck, graphic equalizer and detachable speakers (for half the price that our product costs) are now stuck using the Boose® Wavy as their primary stereo system?

EVEN OUR IN-HOME TRIAL SOUNDS GREAT.

Order a Wavy radio today and take advantage of our risk-free, in-home trial. If after 30 days, you aren't convinced that this is the best sounding radio you've ever heard, simply return the radio to us in its original unopened carton for a full refund. No questions asked! That's right! You have our 100% guarantee that our in-home trial sounds great, providing you don't go back and reread this last paragraph for finely-crafted legal loopholes.

CALL TODAY AND MAKE SIX INTEREST-FREE PAYMENTS.

The Wavy radio is available for $349 direct from Boose*, one of the leading names in high fidelity equipment manufacturers when listed alphabetically. And now our six-month installment payment plan lets you make six monthly payments interest free when you agree to our exclusive seventh payment of all interest! ICEBERG'S-EYE VIEW DEPT.

Now that Titanic is the highest-grossing film of all time, Hollywood logic dictates that there MUST be a sequel. The problem is, the ship sank only once, story over, done deal! Not to worry, though! We screenwriting geniuses at MAD have a plethora of ideas for...

f you were one of the millions of people who enjoyed James Cameron's Titanic, just wait 'til you see what happens when the Master of Mugging himself, Jim Carrey, takes a crack at the same story! Yes, the Clown Prince of Ham is at it again, going through his entire repertoire of exaggerated expressions of panic as the mighty ship sinks into the sea! After two hours of his frenetic, overthe-top acting style, you'll never be happier to see a man drown!

he berg is back! Not content with having sunk the Titanic, the dreaded evil lceberg continues its deadly vendetta against cruise ships, picking off every one that attempts to cross the Atlantic. Bruce Willis plays a hotshot navy commander who survived a previous encounter with "the berg" — and now he's declared his own Cold War, vowing to crush it into a billion fittle cubes and serve them in party drinks! Julia Roberts plays Willis' estranged wife, a brilliant prostitute-turned-oceanographer. Unfortunately, watching these two bickering ex-lovers won't melt your heart - or many icebergs!

earthrob Leonardo DiCaprio stars Romeo Dawson in a motion picture that'll be seen by every teenage girl in America — at least ten times! The film's producers are promising a tale so tragic that theaters where it's playing will literally fill up with tears and cause actual drowning deaths! It's a familiar tale of two star-crossed lovers kept apart by fate and poor acting! At the end, they realize their love can never be, and decide to kill themselves. It's actually a lot like the first Titanic, only with a more depressing ending because in this version they die a few minutes earlier!

The real reason so many people perished when the Titanic sank was the lack of qualified lifeguards board. In this offbeat sequel, the ship is reconstructed and the Baywatch crew is hired to prevent any future disasters. As a bonus, the theme song is sung by David Hasselhoff! (Sure to be a hit in Germany!) The highlight of the film is when Hasselhoff offers to sketch all of the Baywatch babes naked in his cabin! And although the scene goes on a bit long, lasting just over two hours and fifty eight minutes of the three hour movie, it does generate enough heat to make the threat of icebergs extremely remote!

WE'LL SOON SEE

veryone loves the old Love Boat TV show and everyone loves movies about big sinking ships, which means NO ONE will want to miss this bold new film which combines them both! All your favorite washed-up has-been stars are here, falling in love and then sinking to their deaths! Watch as Charc utters her last "Koochie, koochie, koochie!" See Gary Coleman freeze in sub-zero waters and Jimmy "J.J." Walker desperately cling to a life preserver! Whose careers will stay afloat and whose will sink like stones? Half the fun of watching this movie is finding out!

obin Williams stars as a wacky absent-minded professor who travels back in time and saves the Titanic by zapping it with his shrinking ray! But until he invents a way of zapping it back to its regular size, the ship and its passengers must stay affoat in his bathtub! Enter Jerry Maguire's Janathan Lipnicki as Williams' precocious son who's determined to sink the Titanic himself! Forget about icebergs — now the mighty ocean liner faces danger from a rubber ducky and a large bar of hand soap!
